

Science Advisory Committee

Dick Solberg

Dick Solberg is retired from a distinguished career in academia serving as a professor of botany, academic vice president, dean of the college of arts and sciences, and director of the Flathead Lake Biological Station for the University of Montana. While in service at the university, Dick obtained over $400K in grant awards, coordinated international programs, participated in academic standards and curriculum review, chaired a number of academic committees and task forces, coordinated numerous programs, and co-authored 27 journal publications. He has a MS in Botany from Washington State University and a Ph.D. in Botany from UCLA. Dick continues to serve the community of Whitefish on a variety of boards and committees supporting the arts and sciences.